

*Being the first man
to explore and discover*

DAZIBAO#14

Being the first man to explore and discover a new territory, a new length in time, in the best of cases a space-time until then unknown, representing a proudness which should in no way be tarnished by the fact that it remains an impasse.

To get out of it, we can find the key in the passage by desire beyond finishness and nothingness, out of space and time.
